Jasper - Bumblebee

Bumblebee Jasper is a volcanic rock mix comprised of mainly fibrous Calcite ( $\text{CaCO}_3$ ) with sulfur (S), arsenic sulfides, hematite, pyrite, and volcanic ash.

It has bands of black, brown, orange, yellow, and other colors.

It is not a true form of jasper which is a silicon dioxide ( $\text{SiO}_2$ ).

It has only been found near Mount Papandayan in Indonesia.

Bumblebee Jasper is comprised of the following:

Calcite:  $\text{CaCO}_3$  (Calcium Carbonate)

Sulfur: S (yellow)

Arsenic Sulfides (Realgar):  $\text{As}_4\text{S}_4$  orange/red bands

Pyrite:  $\text{FeS}_2$  Iron Sulfide, black bands

Volcanic Ash (ie Lava rock powder)

Other Minerals: Including Hematite, Anhydrite, Aragonite.

Because of the presence of Arsenic materials do not make direct water infusions with it, do not put it in the bath, do not crush and consume this crystal.
