Quartz - Purple

Purple Quartz is a combination of Amethyst and Quartz. These properties are as follows:

It is said that quartz crystals were used in Atlantis and Lemuria for rejuvenation. Ancient priests used it to dispel negative energy. The ancient Greeks believed it was water frozen by their Gods and therefore called it Krystallos, meaning 'ice'. Romans used to carry it during the summer to keep their hands cool. They also used it for pain relief and treat fevers and swellings. During the middle ages it was placed upon the tongue to reduce a fever, that a crystal was a main component in the workings of a device used within the great pyramid of Egypt for initiation...abductees reporting the use of crystals by aliens.
