Sedonalite Vortex Shaman Stones

Sedonalite Vortex Shaman Stones are sandstone formations with high quantities of quartz in them that were formed in or near power vortexes in Sedona, Arizona (USA).

DO NOT GET WET! These are balls of sandstone/mud that form spheres in vortexes in Sedona, Arizona. As such, they could dissolve in water. The energy vortexes are pools of swirling energy. Think of a dust devil or miniature tornado filled with high frequency energy swirling around sand and dirt with moisture and they form super charged balls.

They are able to receive, retain and transmit much of the energy that they have been exposed to and are extremely active crystals.

It is a stone of dynamic energetic balance.

They can charge and harmonize the meridian system, bringing one's astral and subtle bodies into resonant alignment with the physical.

They are both grounding and stimulating and helps the user to achieve a heighten sense of alertness and sensitivity.

Helps to expand your awareness.

Excellent for Shamanic workings.
